

BASEBALL—SPORTS OF ALL SORTS—BOXING

Eight of the 25 hikers who started for Fort Sheridan yesterday with Dan O'Leary reached their destination. Heat forced the others to drop out en route. The distance, a little over 28 miles, was covered in 6 hours and 25 minutes.

O'Leary will receive entries for his 200-mile walk at White City any day from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. at the South Side amusement park. In connection with this long grind there will be a 10-mile race for women, with a gold watch as first prize. Mrs. Fannie Schultz is the first feminine entrant.

Jimmy Clabby will break back into harness tonight at Oshkosh, Wis., where he is to meet Young Farmer in a ten-round battle. The Hoosier has been working out at a local gymnasium.

Jimmy Foley, local amateur lightweight, defeated by Lee McMahon for the city title at the Sportsmen's club show, has entered a protest with the Central A. A. U., claiming McMahon once received money for boxing at Aurora. If the claim is proved McMahon will be declared a professional and Foley will be awarded the title.

Charlie White will fight Milburn Saylor twelve rounds in Boston tomorrow night. The two lightweights have never met before. Saylor is a rugged battler and claims study has given him a defense that will obstruct White's deadly left.

Frank Cavanaugh, Newark, was the sensation at last night's cycle races at Riverview, winning the one-lap and two-mile races. Iver Lawson was second in each event. Ned Young, Sale Lake, won the brassard. John Bedell won the five-mile motor-paced even in straight heats.

HONEST

"My boy, you're a clever lad to catch such a big fish by yourself."
"Oh, I don't mind telling you, sir, that I got the worm to help me."

Interest in baseball may be dead, but not when a team is battling up around the top and furnishing a nifty class of baseball. In the last three days 50,000 fans have crowded into Comiskey park to watch the White Sox and Washington in four games. High-water mark of the season was reached yesterday, 25,000 attending the split double-header.

One player in one department and several athletes in another line of endeavor need some special instruction from Manager Rowland.

First, Buck Weaver should be weighted when he gets on the bases. The peppery shortstop runs too heedlessly at times, and before the season is over the fault may result in a fe-
